Luncheon & Presentation

Catholic Perspective on Medicine

St. James, Bioethics, and the Public Square

Everyone—patient, health care professional, family member, bystander—faces questions at the intersection of daily life and medicine. How we as Catholics approach these questions and make present our faith can shape the communities in which we live.

Barbara Golder, M.D., J.D.

Editor in Chief, Linacre Quarterly, journal of the Catholic Medical Association

Join us after Mass...

12:30—2:30pm

Mercy Medical Center

12:30 – 2:30 pm

“St. James, Bioethics, and the Public Square”

Barbara Golder, M.D., J.D.

Dr. Golder is Editor in Chief of Linacre Quarterly, journal of the Catholic Medical Association and the longest continuously published bioethics journal in the U.S. As a physician, attorney, bioethicist, and award-winning author, Dr. Golder also speaks and writes from her own frontline experiences and insight at the intersection of faith, law, medicine and ethics. Her writing is fresh, direct, and as accessible to laymen as to experts.

Dr. Golder is a graduate of the University of Arizona (BS, Chemistry with honors); University of Florida (MD with honors), Stetson College of Law (JD, magna cum laude) and the National Catholic Bioethics Center (certificate with honors). Her work in hospital pathology, forensic pathology, and as a laboratory director led to pursuit of a law degree and a practice in health care law as well as an interest in medical politics. She is a consecrated member of the Missionary Cenacle Apostolate (MCA), the lay branch of Missionary Cenacle Family founded by Father Thomas Augustine Judge. She has previously served as Director of Adult Faith Formation and Evangelization at the Basilica of Sts. Peter and Paul in Chattanooga, TN.

Her mystery novels, Dying for Revenge and Dying for Compassion, portraying Catholic life lived vibrantly, if sometimes imperfectly, in a world that doesn't always understand the life of faith, have received the Seal of Approval of the Catholic Writers Guild, and Dying for Revenge was a finalist for the Indie Book Award in 2017.

Parking at Mercy Medical Center: Use the Bunting Garage at 250 E. Pleasant Street. There is an all-weather bridge to access the Bunting Center. Parking is complimentary with ticket validation at luncheon.
